Amanda Duncan

9:37 AM

i'm using breezin thru theory in my beginning steel band and handbells classes

it's great

i'm using that as my "audition" into my honors steel band class

Greg Sparks

9:37 AM

Mike, are your websites compatible with google classroom?

Brandon Haskett

9:40 AM

Steve Lawrie: pantuner.com

You

9:43 AM

<http://jamzone.littlekidsrock.org/school-closure-resources/>

Amanda Duncan

9:43 AM

yes that's my biggest concern!

Brandon Haskett

9:44 AM

Yes, that is a real concern. In the fall I really need to find a way to get instruments home to students. They can still have practice pads so it's not so much at home.

Richard Kurasz

9:53 AM

have to run. Nice to see everyone!

Brandon Haskett

9:53 AM

See you later, Rick.

You

9:54 AM

Thanks Rick!!

yes Kayleen Justus mentioned that in monday's meeting

BRB

Raymond McNamara

9:56 AM

Thx I bought the app but I havre no sound. For some reason I get sound thru bluetooth but not on my phone?

Amanda Duncan

10:01 AM

so i'm going back and forth between this meeting and proctoring a mock AP music theory exam on another laptop, but i'm still reading the messages

Mike Greer

10:01 AM

Greg- not sure about compatibility with google classroom - but results are downloadable in csv or excel, at least in that sense they can be

Mike Greer

10:03 AM

Agreed.. own sticks ideal

Brandon Haskett

10:05 AM

Going to have each student use their own sticks. No rotating between instruments. Students moving their own instruments instead of shared effort in moving instruments. Likely using an electric bass instead of 6 bass just because of moving/timing issues without having others help. Sanitizer and disinfectant for everyone throughout the music department.

Mr Jesse

10:09 AM

I think hitting up Joe Kelley could be good. He's a builder and a teacher, he would be a good great resource for these questions.great chatting, thank you for your dedication!

Raymond McNamara

10:15 AM

Thx Dave. I have to leave.

You

10:15 AM

Thanks Ray! Be well!

Jeffrey Martin
